

This is an important issue to me and many of my friends in Brooklyn and the NYC area. Despite the cosmopolitan nature of this great American city, we are concerned about the diversity of our news and information sources.